“All persons shall be equal before the law. Men and women shall have equal rights. The state shall promote the actual implementation of equal rights for women and men and take steps to eliminate disadvantages that now exist.”

German Constitutional Law Article 3 (1) and (2)

In Germany these rights were not always taken for granted. Up until as late as the 70s, women were only allowed to work with their husbands' permission. Marital rape has only been a criminal offence since 1997. The Women's Rights Movement has fought for the rights that women have today. This has made it possible for women to break out of their traditional roles as housewives and mothers.

Today, men and women in Germany have equal rights in all areas of life!

Because you decide what you want to wear, what job you want to do, if you want to have children and who you want to marry! The fact that the man helps with the housework and raising the children is an expression of sexual equality.

You make the decisions now!
